PRODUCT FEATURES & TECHNICAL SPECIFICATION

- Slip Resistant
- Highly decorative
- Installed with little down time O Sanitary & Easy to Clean
- Exceptional durability & Value
- Chemical, Abrasion & Impact Resistant
- Epoxy coatings are used as industrial floor coatings because of their chemical resistance, durability, low porosity and strong bond strength.
- An Epoxy coating consists of a 'base' and curing' agent. The two components are mixed in a certain ratio. A chemical reaction occurs between the two parts generating heat and hardening the mixture into on inert, hard'plastic'.
- After the two epoxy parts ore combined there is a working time (pot life) during which the epoxy can be applied or used. Generally the pot life will be anywhere from minutes to one hour. at the end of the pot life the mixture becomes very worm and further accelerates the hardening.
- Epoxy Resins will harden in minutes or hours, but complete cure (hardening) will generally take several days. Most epoxies will be suitably hard within a day or so, but may require more time to harden before the coating can be sanded.
- By nature, epoxy resins ore hard and brittle.
- The best time to recoat epoxy is within 12- 48 hours after the initial coot. Because epoxies take days to reach full cure, a second coot applied shortly after the first coat will partially fuse to the first coot rather than just forming a simple mechanical bond. If the recoat window is exceeded it is necessary to mechanically abrade the surface to create o mechanical bond for subsequent coats coadhere.
